On Wednesday, April 15, the Arlington Chamber of Commerce hosted the 33rd Annual Valor Awards to recognize the men and women who so valiantly keep Arlington safe year round. The Valor Awards honored members of Arlington County's Office of Emergency Management, Police Department, Fire Department and Office of the Sheriff for their extraordinary heroic efforts in the line of duty.

This year, the Chamber also honored Arlington County Chief of Police M. Douglas Scott who retired in March following a 40-year career in law enforcement, including 12 years as Arlington County Chief of Police.

"Chief Scott has truly done an excellent job serving the Arlington community," said Chamber President & CEO Kate

Roche. "He has been a longtime friend to the Chamber and the Arlington business community. He will be missed and fondly remembered, but his legacy will live on through the great work of the Arlington County Police Department."

CHAIR'S MESSAGE

The True Leaders of Arlington

Due to my current position as Chair in 2015, I've attended every Chamber signature event, to date. However, I'm embarrassed to tell you that due to the focus of my "day job" in real estate, for years I have attended only those events related to my own industry (real estate) such as the Chamber's Annual Gala, the Annual Meeting and the State of the County, to name a few. These are all great events full of value, but I now realize that not getting to more events was a mistake.

In the last two months I've had the honor of presenting at two great events put on by the Chamber, the Hospitality Awards and the Valor Awards. I can now tell you firsthand, if you've never attended these before, then you'll never truly understand why they're so special to Arlington. My last two messages have focused on big business issues, and while that's of course at the forefront of our minds while we read the Washington Post, Washington Business Journal, etc. each week, there is so much more going on in our community, and in our society, that we need to be aware of and honor.

Because most receiving this were not able to attend these events, I thought I share with you a few examples which really stuck with me, first from the Hospitality Awards:

Kenneth Little, of the Key Bridge Marriott, mentors new hires and goes the extra mile to make all of his team members feel like part of the family. One night, when a guest spilled mustard on his tie before a gala, Kenneth took off his own tie, ironed it, and gave it to the guest to wear. This kind of service is true hospitality.

Of course, a minor stain on a tie is not the end of the world, but this act of selflessness stuck with me. There's no incentive in place for this, no bonus potential, but Mr. Little just felt it was the right thing to do as a good person and good employee. And at the Valor Awards we heard this story of bravery:

Captain Craig Brightbill and Firefighter/EMTs Chad Aldridge and John Hirte, arrived first on scene, and quickly determined that the trapped victims may be in the upstairs bedroom on the rear of the house which had not yet been reached by the fire. Brightbill quickly made the decision to attempt a rescue without the protection of a hose line which had not yet arrived. Within seconds of entering the house to begin a search, Aldridge began to feel extreme heat being pushed on him and forcing him down to the floor....Aldridge was being burned through his protective clothing. The large fire was extinguished in a relatively short period of time once additional crews arrived without spreading to any other homes. They continued to find avenues to overcome obstacles in efforts to reach trapped occupants and to carry out their sworn duty to save lives and property.

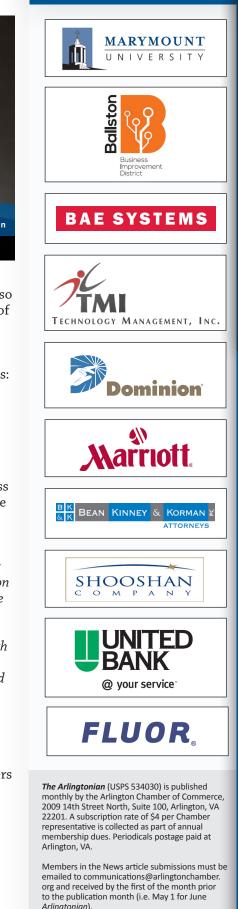

Please keep these stories in mind as you go throughout your workday, remembering how to go a little above and beyond what's expected like Kenneth Little. And I hope we're all humbled by the courageous examples set by Captain Brightbill and firefighters Chad Aldridge and John Hirte.

"This is a wonderful day. I've never seen this one before." -Maya Angelou

33RD ANNUAL VALOR AWARDS

Arlington's Heroes

The honorees at the 33rd Annual Valor Awards were recognized for their courageous, often lifesaving actions in the line of duty. Approximately two hundred attendees of the Valor Awards heard many testimonies of selfless acts of heroism. These men and women who serve Arlington were applauded for their commitment to protecting the families, neighbors and community.

One group of honorees from the Arlington County Police Department included Corporals Brian Ames and Ryan Allen and Detective Darrel Taber. On January 16, 2015, the Emergency Communications Center was contacted by Care Crisis Chat about a suicidal subject they were communicating with via live chat. Because of a shared IP address on an Arlington Public Schools issued device, Care Crisis Chat could not identify the exact user. Detective Taber, of the computer forensics unit, was working off-duty and was contacted to help find information necessary to locate the juvenile. After an hour and twenty minutes of searching, Corporals Allen and Ames located the student at the address found with the help of Detective Taber. The exhaustive efforts of Detective Taber and Corporals Ames and Allen helped locate a young man in crisis and got him the medical care needed to save his life. This incident is a very good example of dedicated county employees using new methods and technologies to overcome challenges.

Shifting Futures with Phoenix Bikes

by Meg Rapelye-Goguen, Executive Director, Phoenix Bikes

Nestled down by the tennis and basketball courts in Barcroft Park in South Arlington is a 630 square foot brick and cinderblock building. Some may remember it two decades ago as a concession stand for the adjacent baseball field. But when you peer into the former concession window now, instead of the smells of hotdogs on the grill and the sound of popcorn popping is the musk of degreasers and the clicking of bicycle gears shifting. Welcome to Phoenix Bikes!

The mission of Phoenix Bikes is to educate youth, promote bicycling, and build community. Organized by a dedicated group of local citizens and cyclists, Phoenix Bikes was built around the remnants of Community Spokes, a community bike shop sponsored by the Arlington County Department of Parks and Recreation (the organization's new beginning which inspired the name "Phoenix"). Phoenix Bikes has supported local youth since 2007 – providing a safe, nurturing, and educational environment that reinforces teamwork, hard work, community service, and entrepreneurship through bicycle maintenance education programs. Youth, ages 12 to 17, are invited to participate in bike refurbishment and retail operations as they contribute to the daily running of the non-profit community bike shop in Barcroft Park. Phoenix Bikes youth mechanics develop tangible mechanic and business management skills, as well as important success skills for life such as self-reliance and grit. Since its launch, Phoenix Bikes has had the opportunity to teach over 3000 local youth from low to moderate income families the basics of bike repair, hundreds of whom went on to earn their own bike. As part of the Earn-a-Bike curriculum, youth mechanics first work on refurbishing a bicycle for a community member in need of one for transportation or fitness.

Although Phoenix Bikes has called the repurposed concession stand in Barcroft Park home for over eight years, the limited space is limiting the organization's ability to grow its community impact. Therefore, Phoenix Bikes is undertaking a capital campaign to fund a new space in South Arlington. Chamber member participation in Phoenix Bikes is welcomed at a number of levels, including financial support for the capital campaign or annual fund, sponsoring community cycling events, serving as volunteers, donating used bikes and parts, or stopping by the community bike shop to get a tune-up or purchase a refurbished bike. Your participation will directly support Phoenix Bikes' mission and help shift the futures of more Arlington youth toward greater success. For more information about Phoenix Bikes, please go to www.phoenixbikes.org.

1776 Expands to Arlington, Acquires Disruption Corporation

by Cara O'Donnell, Public Relations Manager, Arlington Economic Development

In an exciting partnership designed at creating a stronger regional innovation economy, global startup incubator and seed fund 1776 has announced it will be expanding to Crystal City as part of the growing technology hub there. As part of the move, 1776 will acquire Disruption Corporation, integrating Crystal City's leading startup platform into 1776's larger portfolio of offerings and accelerating 1776's ability to support startups, corporations and private investors with game-changing tools.

"This region's growing innovation economy and its future economic growth are closely linked, which is why at 1776 we've focused our attention on creating new opportunities for regional innovation and unfettered access to the networks that exist across regional borders," said 1776 co-founder Donna Harris. "Between our partnership with Vornado and the acquisition of Disruption, this exciting new venture will allow us to bring together ALL the tremendous assets this region has to offer, from the NIH and MedStar in Bethesda to the Pentagon and Lockheed Martin in Crystal City, and create one of the most vibrant technology communities in the country."

1776 will partner with Washington-area real estate leader Vornado/Charles E. Smith to open a new campus in the rapidly emerging innovation hub of Crystal City, enabling 1776 to connect startups to the powerful talent, expertise, corporations, and government agencies in Crystal City and throughout Virginia.

1776's expansion into Crystal City is the latest in a number of startups operating in emerging industries. Because of the area's large concentration of the world's most important government agencies and corporations, Crystal City has become home to a growing community of startups operating in those industries where government is a key player.

"We're proud that this new partnership will be anchored in Crystal City, which is increasingly becoming a globallyrecognized home for world-changing startups," said Virginia Governor Terry McAuliffe, who was on hand for the expansion announcement. "This new, unprecedented level of regional collaboration removes the traditional regional boundaries, creating tremendous opportunity for broad-based economic growth that benefits the entire region, and offering a model for future, long-term economic growth throughout Virginia and the DC Metro area."

"The tremendous growth we're seeing in Crystal City and throughout Arlington County is an example of the promise a vibrant innovation economy holds for our entire region," said Arlington County Board Chair Mary Hynes. "We believe that this new regional partnership will create new opportunities for growth that will cement Arlington County's leading position as a startup hub, with benefits not just for Arlington County but for the broader region as well."

1776 will partner with Arlington County to create new avenues for startups to grow and thrive. 1776 recently made a similar partnership with Montgomery County, MD in an effort to connect the entire DMV region.

OPPORTUNITY WORKS CORNER

ENERGY OF EXCELLENCE Make the FIVE STAR connection.

The Opportunity Works 2015 Campaign continues as campaign volunteers make progress toward reaching our goal of $252,015 by June 23. We are already more than halfway towards our goal, with a total of $169,177 so far. That is a testament to the hard work and dedication of all our volunteers.

Special thanks to M&T Bank's Glebe Lee branch for being incredible hosts for our Opportunity Works Networking Rally in April. At the Networking Rally, guests mingled and enjoyed food and drink while testing their knowledge with some fun trivia. We recognized some of our top producers geared up for the rest of the campaign. Attendees also heard a success story from Rick Reinsch of Digital Recollections about turning a referral into a new membership. Rick's story was a great example of taking one of those business connections that each of you encounters every day in your business and turning it into a new Chamber member.

For more information about the Opportunity Works program, please contact Cassie Bate at 703-525-2400 or cbate@arlingtonchamber.org.

MARCH SMALL BUSINESS ROUNDTABLE

The KARMA of Paper Management for Home Based Businesses

During the March Small Business Roundtable, C. Lee Cawley, Certified Professional Organizer and 2014 Best Home Based Business Award Winner, of Simplify You, Inc. shared her unique tips for organizing the paper that piles up when running at home based business. C. Lee is one of only 343 Certified Professional Organizers worldwide, and through her presentation, attendees learned how to identify, sort and manage the five different types of paper in their homes.

The KARMA of Paper Management for Home Based Businesses

K – Krud: the clutter of our everyday usage of paper in our office and homes. Clutter is the result of postponed decisions.

A – Action: Where do the papers go? Make this an active project and divide your personal and business items up.

R – Reference: Label everything with a logical noun. Divide the folders by subject (Personal, home, finances, insurance etc.) Have a designated location for these (filing cabinet, ottoman.) Important to keep vital records handy, in case of emergency.

M – Memorabilia: This speaks to your heart, not your head. Have a document box for papers, art work, and portfolios. When it comes to memorabilia, display it for a little while, but be sure to take it down. If it is really special, then keep it.

A – Archive: Be sure to store away older archived materials such as tax returns. Bankers Boxes are great for these. Generally, you should not hold on to these longer than a decade.

C. Lee recommends scheduling a time each week to get to work on filing away papers. 750 pounds of paper is used annually per person in a professional setting, so you want to make sure you stay ahead of the curve. The 80/20 rule can also apply with your papers. If you think you will refer to it in the future, file it away. If not, throw it out.

C. Lee is available for free phone consultation on how to best organize your home or office and can be reached at 703-625-7336 or by email CLee@SimplifyYou.com.
